Description

Andrew Coates (British School, Born 1955)
Andrew Coates was born in Mitcham, Surrey and grew up in New Zealand and now lives in Devon. Andrew has perfected a meticulous "pointillism" style. The work is intricate, sometimes taking over one month to complete a painting. His style is representational, precise, almost photographic, but with the extra dimensions of mood and depth. Andrew's prowess lies in bringing to life landscapes, creating images that are almost hypnotic in their attraction, through his subtle treatment of light and shadows on the landscape. Sunsets, seas, rivers, cornfields, all come to life with this deft and sensitive rendering.

Andrew has exhibited at the Royal Academy and he won the Goldline Award for landscape painting at the Mall Galleries. Three leading New Zealand public galleries still show his work and the famous opera singer Kiri te Kanawa is a collector.

Oil on canvas. Signed lower right.
